DESCENDANTS

of

MICHAEL McGUIRE

TO YOU WHO HAVE PURCHASED THESE BOOKS,

GREETINGS:

Here-with is your copy of the book, DESCENDANTS OF MICHAEL McGUIRE, which you ordered. It represents an enormous amount of work and time over a period of eight years. One-thousand hours is a conservative, minimum estimate of time I myself devoted to this project prior to November 16, 1950. Since that date, the compiling and writing of this book has taken an average of forty hours a week, according to the record I have kept. This makes a total of fifteen-hundred hours of work on this project during the past ten and a half months. Financial cost is in addition to this.

Each one who sent the least bit of information and data has had a part in the making of this book. Most of you responded admirably to my repeated letters asking for additional information about your families. This has been most gratifying. The exchange of many letters with so many first, second and even third cousins whom I have not had the pleasure to meet in person has seemed to draw us all closer together. It has given me considerable satisfaction to know you better. I have found that the descendants of Michael McGuire are sincere, intelligent, law-abiding, self-respecting, Christian people. The mates of Michael McGuire's descendants have also been given recognition. They, too, have contributed much toward the building of a fine family of people.

This book is designed so that each couple has space to record future births, deaths and marriages for several generations. Each descendant is given a number corresponding to his position in his immediate family. Three generations are given in genealogical descent at the top of each page. Section I concerns Michael's parents, brothers and sisters. Section II is about Michael and his families. Each of Michael McGuire's children who raised a family has one section devoted to him and all his descendants. A blank sheet of heavier paper separates the sections. If desired, small, single weight pictures may be mounted on the heavier paper with Fotoflat, a dry mounting tissue that is easy to apply with a warm iron.

Because of this book's value as a permanent record for many years to come, a small number of extra copies have been made. Those who expressed a desire for a book but were unable to order at this time and parents who wish to provide each of their children and/or grandchildren with this prized edition may still do so as long as the supply lasts (packaging and postage extra). I know how it feels to be disappointed when there are only three books for seven children.

Finally, I shall greatly appreciate it if you will fill out the enclosed, addressed postal card. Please sign your full name and complete address and put it in the mail immediately. These books are very valuable and I shall be anxious to know whether or not they reach you in good condition and how you like them. If damaged in transit take at once to your local postmaster.

Thank you and God bless you and yours, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

Cynthia E. Orr

What is the tree that no one can climb
Though all are hanging on a limb
That has taken ages of time
For it to grow up to him?

PREFACE

In 1910-1911 I taught the second grade in the Medicine Lodge, Kansas, school and made my home that year with Grandma Belle McGuire. She gave me considerable data concerning Michael McGuire's family. This information was later lost and for many years my desire to publish a McGuire Family Tree lay dormant. In 1943 when my brother, Harry, who had been gathering family data, suddenly died, my interest in family genealogy was awakened. For the next several years cousin Maud Kelly, who was also interested, assisted me in gathering data.

It was not until 1946, when I was stricken by a serious illness, that I began to realize the importance of putting the data on hand into usable form. As I worked I found that we had collected only about half of the data needed. As my health improved I intensified my efforts. In the fall of 1950 I consented to publish this book and the work has been my full-time job since Nov. 16, 1950. In Jan. 1951 I worked out the present form to provide for recording future data. After many stencils had been cut I still had an unsatisfied feeling about the book. I visited our Wyoming State Library and found "The How Book" for genealogists by Walter M. Everton, Genealogical Librarian, Cache County Public Library, Logan, Utah. He tells us that we should leave for our great grandchildren the kind of a record that we would like to have of our great grandparents. He says it should contain, (1) an account of our ancestors, (2) story of our own life, our faith, our work and accomplishments, and (3) information about our family.

We should tell the things our great grandchildren will want to know in addition to names and dates that make up our pedigree and the facts about our life. Supplement this with many family pictures so that they will feel well acquainted with us. We should write it NOW while our memory is good and put it in a well bound book that will last and make a copy for each of the children.

This information crystallized my decision to send out a data sheet and letter requesting biographical sketches and tributes to parents, even though it would greatly increase costs for material and treble my work in publishing this book. The response was magnificent. Corrections and additions of names and dates were obtained and stories of numerous lives well spent were revealed. My pride of ancestry grew as I read your accounts of courage, forbearance and accomplishments bound together by the golden threads of Spiritual integrity. I trust this version will fulfill your expectations even though you may find flaws and errors which I tried diligently to avoid.

Space does not permit me to name all who contributed but please accept my gratitude for each bit of information. The following people were especially helpful in supplying extra data, sketches, anecdotes and fragments of history: Dr. Eva McGuire (widow of Michael's nephew Carleton); Uncle George McGuire; Aunt Olive Taliaferro; Blanche Carpenter; Ora Fae Chapman; Mayme McGuire; Helen McGuire; Grace Vail; George Stockstill; Breta Lu Jones; Ruth Mondt; John Marston; Pearl Venables; James Venables; Genevieve Heemstra; Frances V.C. McGuire; Grace McDaniel; Maud Kelly; Grace Rush; Bessie Runyan; Minnie Coleman; Dorothy Wollesson; Audrey Alfred; Fern Alfred Hayden; Marjorie Webster; Frank Winsor; Cliff Allen; Milt McGuire; May Swailes; Sidney Edwards, Jr. and Lucinda Lanz. All others who sent their own family data only have also been of real assistance.

Finally, much credit is due my husband, Raymond Orr, for without his consent to my undertaking this enormous task, without his encouragement that I see it through to a satisfactory completion and without his excellent help in editing, this book would not have been published.

When Dr. Eva McGuire (widow of Michael's nephew, Carleton) reported to me (Cynthia Orr) in February 1951, that Josiah McGuire, Sr. was a native of Baltimore, Maryland, I employed Robert F. Hayes, Jr., genealogist of Baltimore to search the records. He examined Land Records, Wills, Marriage Licenses, Church Registers, Records in the Court of Common Pleas and the U. S. District Court in Baltimore City and County. He searched the marriage records for Josiah McGuire and Sarah MacManus in Harford and Anne Arundel Counties which border Baltimore County on the northeast and south. In the Baltimore Marriage License book he found the following McGuires listed:

Martin McGuire	to	Ann Taylor	on	July 25, 1778
Anthony McGuire	to	Mary Murphy	on	April 1, 1779
Thomas McGuire	to	Mary Stevenson	on	April 13, 1779
Hugh McGuire	to	Nancy McMechen	on	Jan. 8, 1793

Mr. Hayes says that if we could learn the exact place where Josiah was born that locality could be searched. To make a State wide search would take a long time and cost a considerable amount. The above record shows that the McGuire family was in Baltimore before the birth of Josiah. It indicates, also, that they may have fought in the Revolutionary War.

The following bit of family history, but without explanation, is in a little book sent to me by Dr. Eva McGuire shortly before her last illness:

Henry McGuire	b._____	1782, A.D. -	Oct. 17, 1877
Ruthia McGuire	b._____	1783, A.D. -	Oct. 22, 1885
Josiah McGuire	b._____	1794, A.D. -	Aug. 8, 1860
Sarah McGuire (MacManus)	b._____	1799, A.D. -	May 17, 1878
Michael McGuire	b. March__	1797, A.D. -	Jan. 8, 1894
Mary McGuire	b.____	1797, A.D. -	June 5, 1887
Susan McGuire	b. Dec. 25,	1819, A.D. -	Jan. 13, 1894

It is quite certain that Henry, Josiah and Michael are brothers. The above Josiah and Sarah (MacManus) are our Grandfather Michael's parents. Grandfather Michael told about his Uncle Henry being called upon to settle quarrels among the neighbors as lawyers were almost unknown in those days.

Josiah McGuire, born 1794, was a farmer in Monroe County, Tennessee. He and his wife, Sarah (MacManus) McGuire were the parents of ten boys and two girls, most of whom, if not all, were born in Monroe County. All but the youngest, a son John, who was killed in the Civil War, married and raised families. Three of the boys, Michael, Josiah, Jr., and Madison "Matt", migrated to southeastern Iowa in the 1850's.

Josiah's wife, Sarah, was small and very strong. It is said that she could stand in a half bushel measure and "shoulder" three bushels of wheat. She was dearly loved by all her children who were noted for their obedience. Just a look got attention. A beautiful pond was near their home where she sent the boys to wash their hands and faces before breakfast.

In those days boys were kept busy the year round. Corn was plowed with a bull-tongue plow three or four times between the rows. Rail splitting took up their spare time. They developed good work habits and a hunger for honorable toil. Harvest time was a great and joyful season. Ten cradlers made a crew. By starting early a crew of the best cradlers could cut ten acres of grain in a day.

PARENTS, BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF MICHAEL McGUIRE

Michael said that in his father's family they could have a dance for entertainment and provide the music themselves. He also said that he was raised where tobacco was grown and whiskey made but never used either in any form. Michael's sister, Polly, married James "Doc" Black who had long whiskers to his waist and wore them braided. "Uncle Black" as the children called him, had a knack of getting the slaves back when they ran away.

Michael's youngest son, George, said that he had read and heard some things about McGuires, as, Mag McGuire defended an Italian boy from a slave worker. That John McGuire suggested Labor Day which was first observed in 1882.

In a letter edged in black and signed: "Nicholas and Jennie McGuire to Michael and Belle McGuire," and dated: "Sweetwater, Tenn., May 18th, 1878," Jennie wrote: "Our dear old Mother died at one o'clock yesterday morning. After long and painful suffering she went calm and easy. She was interred at four o'clock yesterday evening in the old Sweetwater grave yard by the side of our Father. Services were held at the grave by Rev. L.H. Carlock of the Methodist Church South. I wish her children could all have been here but it is seldom so many grey haired sons and daughters follow a Mother to the grave as followed ours. She is gone. Let us all try to meet her in heaven where I hope she is today."

MICHAEL and LUCINDA (EDWARDS) McGUIRE

Michael McGuire was born September 4, 1824, near Sweetwater, Monroe County, Tennessee, the fourth of Josiah and Sarah (MacManus) McGuire's twelve children. He received his education in a log school house that had benches to sit on. All the pupils mumbled as they studied. This, Michael did all his life. He had three months extra schooling at an academy in Sweetwater. In addition to his studies, he learned to play Volley-ball. He was an ardent reader but also enjoyed being read to. He went bare-footed until almost grown and he was over six-feet tall. He had the "strength of an ox" and was called upon to take the "lion's share" of work in helping the neighbors out at threshing time. He thought it was fun to do two men's work in a day.

Michael traveled on foot through four miles of timber to see his "best girl." On January 1, 1846, at the age of twenty-one he and Lucinda Edwards were married. He worked for a number of years with his father-in-law making and repairing wagons. He was an expert at putting handles in tools, especially axes. Not being in sympathy with the political views of the South, Michael and Lucinda with their four children migrated by wagon to south-eastern Iowa in the spring of 1852. Here Michael engaged in farming.

In 1867 Michael took Lucinda and their twelfth child, Frank, on a trip to their old home in Tennessee. During their visit there had been a great deal of talk about pick-pockets. After Michael had purchased their return train tickets, he asked a colored man if there were any pick-pockets around. The old slave answered: "They come around just any time at all, sir, just any time at all." Just then Michael discovered that he had been robbed of all his money.

The next year Lucinda passed away and eight days later their seventeen year old daughter, Mary Ann, died. For eight years Michael remained a widower. With the help of the older children he was both father and mother to his large family.

Michael's boys often engaged in corn shucking contests. Bill, Joe, Jim, Tom and Abe would get into the field so early they had to carry a light. Bill said the corn flew so fast that ears were in the air all the time. They would bring in three wagon loads before sun-up. Jim, Tom and Abe could shuck a load in an hour. After gathering corn all day they would have corn meal mush and milk for supper. Corn, even then, was a major crop in Iowa.

On Saturdays they would all go to the timber with wagons to haul wood. On Sunday they went several miles to Salem where they enjoyed attending church. Sometimes the minister would appoint a group of men, including Michael, to help him keep order. They would pass quietly among the boys and say: "We want you boys to see that we have it quiet."

MICHAEL and BELLE (McCULLEY) McGUIRE

Eight years after the death of his wife, Lucinda, Michael married Belle McCulley a school teacher of the community. Shortly after their marriage they went to Tennessee for a visit. The story is told that while they were eating dinner in Chattanooga, the waiter recognized them as being from the North and remarked politely: "Eat hearty now. We don't want you Northerners to go back home and say you didn't get enough to eat."

Earlier in the year of 1876 Michael had made a trip through the south-west to find a new place to live. He visited Kansas as far west as Kinsley and saw some of Texas before returning to Iowa. In the spring of 1882 he took Belle and their two children, George and Olive, to Kansas. They stopped at Harper which was then the end of the railroad. They lived in the home of "Uncle John" McLaughlin for a time in order to study the country. Fuel there consisted of corn stalks and cow-chips. The children were happy herding toads and grass hoppers on stick horses. "Uncle John" took the McGuires to Barber County in May and Michael bought a farm near Sharon. Here they settled down and helped to build a fine prosperous community. Two of Michael's sons and their families also settled in the Sharon Valley. In 1892 Michael and Belle, son Jim and his wife, Lizzie, and son Tom and his wife, Nan, organized and were charter members of the Church of God in their community. Michael had been converted and taken into fellowship in the Church of God at Harrisburg, Iowa, in 1862. He lived an exemplary, Christian life.

Michael's son George, says: "Father was called the 'silent partner.' He was gifted in tilling the soil. He observed others. He did very little writing but would sign a check and that was about all." Michael and Belle were both faithful students of the Bible. Michael's leather bound Family Bible, printed in 1868 is proof of that. Many of their favorite Scripture verses were written out and placed in the Book for ready reference. Some of them are: Rom. 6:23; John 3:16; I Cor. 15:3; Isa. 45:22; Rom. 10:13; John 6:37; Matt. 5:19; Rev. 21:7; I John 3:23,24 and many others. Belle saved many beautiful poems that were also placed in the Bible. In the spring of 1886 Belle went on a trip to Texas with their neighbors, the Jesse Boyd family. They took their Bibles along and read and prayed daily.

Michael remained active to the last year of his life. When he was eighty years old he went out with several of his sons and neighbors to measure a field. He insisted on taking his turn carrying the chain. Later that year after an illness of several months, Michael McGuire died August 2, 1905. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Kelly of the Church of God. The funeral text used reads: "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like His." -Num. 23:10. In the death of Michael McGuire, Barber County lost one of its pioneer settlers and a noble, enterprising citizen.

WILLIAM T. and ELIZABETH (LUCKY) McGUIRE

William T. McGuire and Elizabeth Lucky were married October 10, 1876, in Washington County, Highland Township, Iowa. They lived and farmed in Iowa for nearly ten years after which they moved, with their only child, Blanche, to Barber County, Kansas. Their sojourn in Barber County was of short duration. About 1888 they went by covered wagon to Columbus in southeast Kansas where they lived for three years then returned to Iowa.

While at Columbus, the story came to relatives in Barber County that William T. had gone to the first land opening in the Indian Territory - now a part of Oklahoma. He walked 60 miles and carried two grips - time, 14 hours.

When an emergency call of any kind was made, Bill McGuire would be there. The distance was no obstacle. If anybody was in need of a doctor he could relieve many of the aches and pains by a word or some well-known, old-fashioned remedy, such as the application of a cow-flat to a carbuncle.

Bill was a good farmer. He raised large flocks of chickens and would plant three acres to Irish potatoes that were well cared-for by hoeing and cultivating. In planting corn the seed was dropped in the furrow behind a "walking-plow." The children loved to help plant it. Something to eat was just "cornmeal mush and milk." Bill liked to eat it for supper and he had a special way to make it. He'd take a pot of boiling water and sprinkle the cornmeal into it slowly through his fingers, then, stir it with a corn stalk - a spoon wouldn't do - and he'd cook it for four hours.

George McGuire, a half-brother, said that Bill was the best story-teller he ever knew. This is corroborated by Lucinda Belle (McGuire) Lanz, a niece, who relates the following story from her Uncle Bill's vast repertoire: "In the community in Missouri where Henry McGuire lived there was now and then a bit of thieving of chickens, pigs and food from cellars. Years ago people sometimes became impatient for justice and took the law in their own hands.

"After several of Henry's neighbors had missed one thing and another, they decided to go after the thief. Henry hadn't missed anything but decided to go along, a safe distance behind. Their suspicions centered on one neighbor who lived pretty well, so they gathered one evening and followed him.

"On this trip one of the men took a strong rope - just in case. Finally, they trapped their quarry in a hen-house, dragged him out and questioned him but he would admit nothing about previous thefts. As a persuader, they walked him to a tree some distance from the house. The rope was brought, put around his neck, drawn taut, and thrown over a limb of the tree. All this time Henry McGuire was within earshot but not a member of the posse. He could hear the rope go reef - reef - reef as it was pulled taut over the limb. No one spoke. The figure shot up and hung there swinging a moment then was lowered. This time the gentleman was more voluble. Yes, he stole some pigs from Lum Stebbins, a bushel of potatoes from Nancy Green, and so on. 'And,' questioned the leader, 'did you steal anything from anyone else?' 'Yes,' he answered, 'I stole two hams from Henry McGuire.'"

Lucinda continued, "I can't lend the color to it that Uncle Bill did but when he said the rope went reef - reef - reef over the limb, I could just hear it. Those were his words. He could tell a story in a way that made your hair stand on end, with all mannerisms and facial expressions thrown in. He would drop one eye lid to lend a sinister aspect in the proper place and incline his head just enough, then wait for the effect.

"Ah, there was a character, and I mean a CHARACTER! I thought he was immensely funny - and WHAT A STORY-TELLER! I used to sit enthralled and listen to him tell his hair-raising tales of the James boys and of hangings and thievings that went on down in Missouri. Uncle Bill could wax real dramatic. He had his own fund of pet words and expressions that I used to repeat and giggle about." The children and all the neighbors liked to have him call and talk.

Bill's wife, Elizabeth, or Lib, as she was called, had a keen sense of humor and enjoyed a funny story. When dinner-time came she drove the children in with a four foot hickory whip - saved calling them. It is said she could "out-general" Bill in an argument. She was a meticulous housekeeper and an excellent cook and her husband's clothes were always immaculately clean. She did exceptionally fine needle work and human hair weaving. She was particular, neat and saving. Everything she did had to be just right. Bill was very cautious. He'd let others try new gadgets first.

In the fall of 1919, Lib passed away at their home near Columbus Junction, Iowa. About five and a half years later Bill married Mrs. Jennie Gardner of Washington, Iowa. They went to Chanute, Kansas, where they resided until Bill passed away March 9, 1926.

Blanche, only child of Bill and Lib McGuire, was a brilliant student in school. She has a pleasing personality and is well liked by everyone. When she and Cyril Carpenter were married he was engaged in the Livery business in Columbus Junction, Iowa. Later he went into the restaurant business. Like her mother, Blanche was an excellent seamstress and made many of her own and her two daughters' clothes. She could sing and play the piano well. Friends and relatives liked to visit in the Bill McGuire home and listen to Blanche play and sing alto with her daughters singing the soprano. About 1900 Blanche began teaching in a rural school near her home in Iowa. Since that time she has taught in various schools in Iowa and California. At present (1951) she is teaching at Healds Business College, a private school in Sacramento, California.

JOSIAH and LYDIA C. (ROBINSON) McGUIRE

Josiah McGuire and Lydia C. Robinson were married October 12, 1870 in Louisa County, Iowa. Josiah was the second child in Michael and Lucinda McGuire's family of twelve children. He was the first one of Michael's children to be married. He and Lydia had eight children all born in Iowa. They were devout Christians, members of the Methodist Church and faithful students of the Bible.

In 1901, upon their doctor's recommendation, Josiah and Lydia started out with team and wagon to find a drier climate for their son, Jesse, who had tuberculosis. Jesse passed away July 15, 1901 at Alma, Nebraska. They then turned south to Barber County, Kansas, and arrived sometime in August. A carpenter by trade, Josiah built several houses and barns and worked on some churches during the two years they lived in Kansas. In the summer of 1903 they moved on to Greeley, Colorado, where they located permanently.

Josiah McGuire was highly regarded by all who knew him for his kindly humor and high ideals. He passed away at the home of his youngest daughter, Ruth Mondt, in Greeley the day the World War I Armistice was signed. Lydia lived one year longer and passed away at the home of another daughter, Grace Vail, in Garden Grove, Iowa. Both are buried in the Greeley cemetery.

Ruth Mondt said of her mother, Lydia McGuire: "She was of Scotch descent, small, wiry and 'sharp as a tack.' None of her children could out-think her, out-smart her or out-spell her. She was kindness personified and a wonderful mother." Lydia had a talent for writing verses as do some of her children and grandchildren. After the death of their son, Jesse, she wrote a beautiful memorial in verse that was published in the Huntley, Nebraska, newspaper in 1901.

Grace, fifth child of Josiah and Lydia McGuire, and her husband, James Vail, raised a large family of fine American citizens. The children were given excellent inspiration and guidance as they developed their own lives to independent adulthood. James had accumulated an extensive library of fine literature that contributed much to the cultural life of the family. Grace likes to keep house and read. She was City Librarian for many years, also a Bible class teacher. She has a talent for writing verses. Soon after she became a member of the P.E.O. Sisterhood in 1900 she began writing verses for and about chapter meetings and chapter members. She wrote the Memorial verses which have been read at the annual services for more than forty-five years. She wrote the lyrics for a Memorial song which another member set to music. She composed in verse the P.E.O. president's welcoming speech to guests on the fiftieth anniversary of the Humeston, Iowa, chapter. Grace is also noted as an able speaker and has given high school commencement addresses. Daughter Clarissa says: "Mother often said she felt there was nothing she couldn't do IF she put her mind to it and she never lost her enthusiasm and zest for trying new things." Daughter Kathryn says of her parents, Grace and James Vail: "I wish I could be exactly like my mother. I'm glad our parents taught us to obey. They have always been the most wonderful people I ever knew."

Charles Russel, younger child of Charles and Ola McGuire, is a grocer in Garden Grove, Iowa. He is a Past Worshipful Master of the Masonic Lodge, president of the Board of Deacons of the Methodist Church for the past ten years and a member of the Commercial Club. He has served on the school board and the town council. Russel's hobbies are hunting and fishing. He enjoys entertaining his salesmen friends in hunting quail during open season in southern Iowa. He never misses an opportunity to hunt pheasant during open season in the northern part of the State. He spends most of his vacations fishing in northern Minnesota. His wife, Evelyn, served as president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church for ten years. Her hobbies are collecting antique dishes and growing flowers. She has won many blue ribbons with her flower arrangements.

Charles Steven, older son of Russel and Evelyn McGuire, finished high school in 1950, then attended Iowa State College at Ames for one quarter after which he entered Marian Preparatory Academy at Marian, Alabama. On July 1, 1951 he will enter the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. His hobbies are reading and playing the piano.

Michael Dan, younger son of Russel and Evelyn McGuire, displays much musical talent. While only an eighth grader he occupied the first chair in the trombone section at the County Band Festival as well as in the local high school band. He sings in the church choir, at funerals, and takes leading parts in operettas and other types of entertainments.

Mildred, eldest of Grace and James Vail's children, was an honor student in high school. She received a scholarship to Parsons College, Fairfield, Ia., which she attended two years. She taught school four years. While teaching in Garden Grove, Ia., she met her future husband, H.P. Weatherly, an athletic coach. After their marriage, H.P. was assistant coach and manual training instructor three years at Atlantic, Ia. In 1932 they moved to Jasper, Mo., where he was associated with his father in the bank. In 1941 he was appointed coach at Redfield, Ia., where he stayed four years. He then returned to the bank in Jasper and became its vice-president. Mildred is very capable, a wonderful homemaker, excellent cook and a devoted mother. She can sew beautifully, sing and write verses. James, their eldest child, joined the Navy in May 1948. He plans to make it his career. He is now a Naval Air Cadet at Saufley Field, Pensacola, Fla., the "Annapolis of the Air" and expects to receive his "wings" as an Ensign sometime this year. Sherrill is sixteen, has blue eyes, blond hair and olive skin. She is a soft spoken, gentle girl whom everyone adores. She is very capable and does things on her own initiative. An honor student in high school, she plays in the band, sings and has been cheer leader two years. Ellen is twelve, near the top of her class, twirls with the band, sings and is a voracious reader. She is tireless in whatever she is interested in, an excellent swimmer, fancy skater and acrobat. Stephan, the youngest, is a happy, busy little boy who loves pets and people and knows everybody. He likes to whittle and carve.

Nellie Rose, sixth child of Josiah and Lydia McGuire, was quite artistic, possessed a pleasing personality and was very considerate of older people. She passed away at the age of twenty-four when her twin sons were two and a half months old. Her grave marker carries this inscription: "None knew her but to love her. None named her but to praise. She lived true faith in Christ's salvation." Her husband, George Stockstill, took a business course at the Methodist College, Winfield, Kansas. He and Nellie farmed on the plains of western Kansas. The cackle of prairie chickens and the howl of wolves in the absence of close neighbors kept them from getting lonesome. It was common to have to drive the rango cattle away from their tiny house several times a night for fear they would rub it down. About 1913 George became a handler of grain and still operates his own elevator. About 1943 he became an ordained minister in the Pillar of Fire Church and says: "Grain handling has become my hobby while my main business is the saving of immortal souls."

She is very cheerful, has many friends and is well liked by all who know her. Breta Lu pays this tribute to her mother, Elva (McGuire) Young:

"I have the most beautiful memories of a wonderful mother,
There were tears sometimes but a smile shown through.
There was a "no" sometimes but an answer so true,
There were always loving arms, warm, warm arms to come home to.
She had a heart of pure gold, Oh yes! there were loads of humor, too.
I'll always be able to see her with her head held high,
She lived a most beautiful life and was not afraid to die."

ORIGINAL VERSES by GRACE VAIL and DAUGHTERS

The Old Home - Grace M. Vail

Beside my bed room window a lovely oak tree stands,
  Its leafy arms extended like supplicating hands,
And there beneath its branches, the song birds love to come
  To fill the air with music and build a tiny home.

Through all the fragrant springtime, through April, May and June,
  The mocking bird and robin pour forth a lilting tune.
Thank God for all these simple joys, for homes and birds and trees,
  And though perchance we lose them all, we still have memories.

Friendship - Dorothy Alice (Vail) Campbell

Friendship is a golden chain
  That links two hearts together,
And, if we guard it carefully,
  This chain no one can sever.

Kindness in our words and deeds,
  Thoughtfulness when speaking,
Each of these will help to bring
  The happiness we're seeking.

If we make the Golden Rule
  Our guide in how we show
Our love one for another,
  True friendship we will know.

And so, for all the lovely things
  You're known to say and do,
I send this little message
  My dear friend, because you're you.

Earthbound - Mildred Joy (Vail) Weatherly

The sky's a jewel above me
A sapphire bluely deep and set by God's own hand.
No lacy froth of cloud beflaws its purity,
Nor hides the strength of noonday's shining sun.
Beneath, the river flows in silent majesty,
Disturbed by nothing save the lap and clap of waves along the sand.
Leaves quiver in the breathy hush,
Heat shimmers, dances, wavers,
  --- But I am earthbound ---
Chained and fettered by the frets and worries of the day,
I cannot lift my soul above the dusty road.

God give me eyes to see the glory of the day,
The sheen of birdwing in the sky,
The haze o'er river ways.
God give me ears to hear the insect's hum,
The sound of water bathing rocks, - Thy Word.
God give me strength to break my bonds,
To lift my weary wings again in flight,
To learn Thy Love.

THE FAMILY OF

SARAH C. McGUIRE and GEORGE W. MARSTON

Sarah C. McGuire, the fifth child in a family of twelve, was born on a farm near Ainsworth, Louisa County, Iowa. When Sarah was fourteen her mother and older sister died within a few days of each other. Sarah took over the responsibilities of housekeeping which she maintained until her father remarried eight years later.

On January 10, 1878, at the age of twenty-three, Sarah married George W. Marston, a neighbor boy. George and Sarah lived and farmed in Louisa County for nine years where their first three children were born.

In the fall of 1886 George went to the southern part of Dakota territory in search of cheap land for farming. In February, 1887, Srarh and the three children joined him. In April the fourth child, their only son, was born.

George bought a pre-emption quarter of land near Virgil, in what is now South Dakota. Part of the land he broke with oxen and planted corn. Misfortune, however, plagued this pioneering venture. Hailstorms destroyed the crop and their only cow fell into an open well.

Through hard work and the help of good neighbors the family gradually became established. In the school house near their home a Sunday School was organized with George as Superintendent and Sarah taking an active part in the services. In 1894 the family moved ten miles to the larger town of Alpena. Here the fifth child, another girl, was born in 1899. In 1903 they moved to Canton, South Dakota, where Sarah and the family remaining at home became affiliated with the Baptist Church.

Sarah acquired a reputation as an excellent cook and housekeeper. Wherever she went she made many friends by her mild and sweet disposition. Her daughter Pearl paid her this tribute: "No one ever heard her complain and through her fine Christian fortitude and strength of character she made her childrens' lives happy and meaningful." After a lifetime of service and sacrifice Sarah died January 10, 1915, and was laid to rest in the cemetery at Canton, South Dakota.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE LIFE OF PEARL AND JAMES VENABLES

Mary Pearl, eldest child of Sarah and George Marston, graduated from the Alpena South Dakota School in 1896. She started teaching at the age of seventeen for the sum of $27 a month. During the next two years she received $30 a month. On May 2, 1900, she became the bride of James G. Venables, a young cattleman of the community. James had come to America from England at the age of eight and at twenty-four was a successful buyer of livestock with the confidence of bankers and stockmen.

Five children were born to Pearl and James. Wyett, the eldest, preceded them in death. Most of James' occupational life was connected with livestock. In 1906 he took a position as salesman for a Livestock Commission Firm in Chicago which he held four years. He then engaged in farming and cattle raising until 1924. In 1930 the family moved to Spearfish, South Dakota, where James sold insurance for three years. Appointed by the Governor, James was Secretary-Manager of the State Fair for four years. In 1941 he accepted a position in the State AAA office in Huron which he held until his death, January 8, 1948.

Genevieve pays this tribute to her parents, Pearl and James Venables: "The most outstanding characteristic of my parents was their high moral standards which have remained a guiding light to each of us children. They were both deeply religious but believed in living their faith rather than flaunting it at us. Father had a very pleasing personality and his friends were legion. His saving sense of humor saw him and the family through many a trying time. He was a fancier of fine horses and we often rode together to look at the cattle. Mother was a very quiet, reserved person who often found it hard to appreciate Father's light-heartedness and easy going manner. During the many hard times it was Mother's industry and quiet forbearance that kept things on an even keel. On occasions when Father's morale was at a low ebb it was Mother who could always see the silver lining."

To his Mother, Pearl Venables, Tom pays this tribute: "As a Mother, mine could not be beat. She stood for the things that are right and good. She did all in her power to pass these concepts on to her children and grandchildren which she did with considerable success. She was devoted to and took an active interest in good government. She was elected and served several years as township clerk in Hand County, South Dakota, the first woman to serve in that capacity in the State. She served as an election official many times and as a leader in women's political circles. As a tribute to her work she was selected as one of a small group of women for a visit to the National Capitol where she was entertained by the First Lady. For a girl who lived her youth in a Dakota sod house, Mother developed a personality and a point of view that was in the public interest--beyond the circle of her family."

Married — 2. J. COURTNEY VENABLES

James George, Jr., third child of Pearl and James Venables, is a salesman and co-owner of a shoe store in Huron, South Dakota. His wife, Winnifred, had one year at State College, Brookings, South Dakota, then entered nurses training at St. Lukes Hospital, Chicago. James said: "In our twenty-five years of married life we have never had a misunderstanding and I believe that our love of the same things is the reason for this. Our hobbies are sports of all kinds. We fish, hunt and play golf. We enjoy football, basketball and baseball. This has kept us in constant touch with the youth of our community with whom and for whom we have always worked."

Married 3. NORMAN P. HEEMSTRA

Genevieve, only daughter of Pearl and James Venables, met her future husband, Peter Heemstra, while they were in college at Huron, South Dakota. When Peter was ready to enter McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, Genevieve gave up the idea of getting a degree. Instead, they were married and she worked at typing, secretarial work and clerking while Peter was doing graduate work. Their first pastorate was at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, where they stayed five years. In 1938 they accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church, Taos, New Mexico and spent two delightful years in that beneficial climate. In 1940 Peter was called to be Associate Pastor at Central Presbyterian Church, Lafayette, Indiana. In high school Genevieve planned to make music her career. When she met Peter and became absorbed in his life-work her music became a hobby. Now she is more interested in seeing their three children develop their talents.

Soon after going to Lafayette, Genevieve and Peter bought a lovely little home in the country where Peter's hobby is a flock of 3000 White Leghorn hens. Of her husband Genevieve says: "Peter is a very successful minister--an excellent preacher and is blessed with a fine speaking voice. Every church he has served was in a run down condition, physically, spiritually and financially when he came. Under Peter's guidance and consistent preaching of the Gospel each one has developed into a well organized Beacon of Light for the Kingdom."

Pearl and James Venables' youngest child, Thomas Marston, was born in Huron and finished high school in Spearfish, South Dakota in 1931. He graduated from the University of South Dakota with a B.S. degree in 1936 and an M.S. in 1937. Of three years military service, World War II, two and a half years were spent overseas as Tech. Sergeant in the G-2 section of the Army, headquarters, Reims, France. After the war Tom attended Purdue University and received a Ph.D. degree in 1948 in Agricultural Economics. Later that year he was offered a job by the U.S. State Department as Land and Institution Specialist with the American Military Government, headquarters at Weisbaden, Germany.

In the summer of 1949, Tom and his wife, Lila, took their annual vacation in Italy. They saw the many museums and religious centers, a side trip to Pompeii in the shadow of Vesuvius, then down the coast. They saw blindfolded donkeys walking an endless circle pumping water for the parched truck gardens. A day on the Isle of Capri took them away from much of the squalor and poverty of southern Italy. In the summer of 1950 they took their vacation in the three Scandinavian countries. They drove their car to Copenhagen then traveled by ferry, train and plane until they returned to their car. The highlight of this vacation was a fourteen hour train ride from Oslo to Bergen, Norway. It was like a trip to the arctic and back in a single day.Starting at sea level, they climbed to above timberline where there were only moss and scraggly shrubs, then down the other side where Rhododendrons and other flowers were in bloom.

While in Europe Tom says that they drove their car from headquarters into all the little countries nearby, and good as it was, they were happy to return to America. On the return trip they visited some of their cousins in England. The experiences in Europe were good training for Tom's present work in the U.S. Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

JAMES M. and ANNA ELIZABETH (McCREEDY) McGUIRE

James M. McGuire and Anna E. McCreedy of Ainsworth, Iowa, were married November 6, 1878 and farmed in Iowa a few years. In the spring of 1882 they took Harry and Arch and went to Barber County, Kansas, where Jim filed and proved-up on a homestead one and a half miles away. To help meet expenses, Jim hauled freight between Harper and Sharon. It took three days to make a round trip. He also hoed corn for a neighbor, Ben Lasswell, for $1.50 per day.

Pioneering in a new country was difficult but through good management, frugality and faith in God, Jim and Lizzie prospered. In 1892 they moved with their six children to a farm they had bought four and a half miles southwest of Sharon. On this farm Jim and the boys raised onions from seed. It was on this venture that the boys really learned to keep a field cleared of weeds. Jim was a good farmer. He bought more land and he and the two boys worked it into wheat and pasture, feeding cattle and hogs together. Jim bought a press and made sorghum from their cane crop. He planted a large fruit orchard - apples, peaches, plums, pears, cherries and a grape vineyard. Around this orchard, Jim planted rows of maple seedlings for protection from wind and cold. When the orchard produced more than the family could use, the surplus was sold and the windfall apples were made into cider and vinegar. Lizzie sold eggs, cream and butter to private customers.

In the fall of 1893-94 five members of the family were stricken by typhoid fever and the two oldest girls, Sadie and Lola, died. After this the house was remodeled and the underground kitchen eliminated.

By the early 1900's Jim's cattle were bringing top prices as prime beef on the Kansas City market. Jim told his children that he would help each one get as much education as he would work for as money could be lost overnight. He and Lizzie were careful and diligent in giving their children spiritual training. The Bible was read daily and the whole family knelt together at the family altar. They took their children to the local Sunday School and Church that they had helped organize and build. They taught their children the things that build good character and they raised seven fine citizens to maturity.

Charles' wife, Grace, said: "Lizzie McGuire was a wonderful woman, always 'a friend in need.' With her capable help they were a thrifty, prosperous and progressive family. After she was sixty-five years old she pieced nearly 100 quilt tops and worked several embroidered bed-spreads. 'Pap' as we all called Jim McGuire, was a grand father-in-law, known for his honesty, kindness, generosity and hospitality - a real Christian." Elmer McDaniel, a neighbor, said of Jim: "I never did business with anyone who tried harder to always do what was fair and right."

In later life Jim and Lizzie raised chickens on a large scale. A siege of influenza and the responsibility of the flock were too much for Jim. While doing the evening chores he dropped to the ground and never regained consciousness. He was not yet sixty-nine years old. His passing was a great shock and loss to the family and the community.

Harry, eldest child of Jim and Lizzie McGuire, loved people. He chose his career in education. He entered Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia in 1899. Times were hard so he alternated college work and teaching. He liked all types of athletics and was a member of the college tumbling team. On the farm he and his brother, Arch, would turn hand-springs and play ball while they "rested" at noon. Harry was also a member of the college quartet and of the debating team. His ability to remember people by name was outstanding. He graduated with honors in June 1906 and was married the following week to Frances Morris.

That fall Harry and Frances went to Norton, Kansas, where he taught two years in the high school. Then they moved to Valley Falls, Kansas, where Harry was Superintendent of Schools for eight years. During his first two years there he instituted a festival to which other schools were invited to compete in musical events, debate, and track. Harry's son, Gerald, says the following story was told to him by Dr. Orville J. Borchers, successor to Mr. Frank A. Beach, former Head of the Music Department of Kansas State Teachers College, who said that he got his idea for the Annual State Music Festival at Emporia, the first of its kind, after visiting Harry McGuire's festival at Valley Falls. After the Music Festival was instituted at Emporia about 1911, similar festivals were started all over the country. The opportunity for high school musicians to be judged by professional musicians at these contests has contributed greatly to raising the musical standards of the nation.

Harry was Superintendent of the Kiowa, Kansas, schools for five years before going to Florence in the same capacity. While at Florence, Harry, then forty-five, told the football team prior to a game that if they won he'd turn hand-springs on the stage before the entire school. The boys won and Harry fulfilled his promise. His son, James, said: "I was the most surprised person in school."

Harry's love for people made him at ease anywhere. He could talk to any size group on nearly any subject. His friends were legion and a trip to a teacher's convention or just down-town with him was an occasion to be remembered. He always made you feel that you were the most important person in the world. He made himself an integral part of any community in which they lived. He spent much time on civic affairs and for the church. He was a 32nd degree Mason and was Worthy Patron for Eastern Star.

After serving the people of Kansas for twenty years in the educational field, Harry and Frances moved to Emporia in 1926 where their six children would have the opportunity to live at home while attending college. At that time Harry took a position as District Manager for The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York which he held for fifteen years. One year he earned the Company's all-expense Award to the International Insurance Writers' Convention at Quebec, Canada, by selling over $200,000 worth of insurance.

Harry's daughter, Doris, paid him this tribute: "He always had time for the 'other fellow' and would give anyone his shirt if he needed it. He gave us everything he possibly could but best of all gave us a wonderful philosophy by which to live. Often he told us: 'Why worry, I have done the very best I could today. No one can ask for more than your best.' That is how he raised and educated six of us and still had a twinkle in his eye, a tune on his lips and a spring in his steps."

Shortly before his untimely passing in 1943, Harry ran for the State Senate on the Democratic ticket. Though entering the race near election time against a wealthy opponent who owned the local radio station, he made an excellent showing in Republican Kansas. His successful opponent said: "Thank God, Harry McGuire is a Democrat."

Florence Elizabeth, eldest of Harry and Frances McGuire's six children, is a talented musician. At Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, she majored in voice and won the Kansas State Contest in 1925. Being an efficient, executive type of person she gave up music for secretarial work and went to Washington, D.C. about 1931. Later she became secretary to a high treasury official. She continued her work there until the spring of 1944 when she married an Attorney, Frederick Roe, and moved to Chicago where she is doing a great deal of Social Service Work.

Harry's wife, Frances Van Cleve (Morris) and her twin brother, were the youngest of eight children. When their mother died, an aunt, Mrs. M.F. Melson, took Frances to raise and was a real mother to her. The Melsons believed in education and made it possible for her to take music and to attend Northwestern Teachers College at Alva, Oklahoma, where she was a member of the first graduating class of the school in 1900. Frances taught school seven years in Oklahoma and at one time was Principal of the high school at Blackwell.

As the wife of a school administrator and the mother of six children, Frances was an excellent manager. Her home and children came first. She was always there when the children came home from school. She was strict with them but fair and they could always depend on what she said. She worked hard and gave up much for her children. Many times she would sew late into the night so that her girls might have something new to wear. She could always stretch the budget for those "extras" for them, usually at the expense of something she had wanted. She always had time for her children, helping them with their school work or playing games with them. Frances has been active in church work all her life and started the children in Sunday School at an early age. She is most thoughtful of shut-ins and people who need a friend.

In 1937, Miss Lula Sours, a college friend, took Frances as her companion on a trip to Europe. They visited England, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Frances gives much of her time to the Church, the Red Cross and other worthy causes.

James Claudius, second child of Harry and Frances McGuire, was interested in athletics - football, basketball and track - in high school. He graduated from Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia in 1933 with a major in chemistry and a minor in health education. During his life James has worked at many different jobs, starting as a bell-hop and shoe-shine boy in a hotel when he was eleven years old. Later he traveled with a surveying crew for two years for the Santa Fe Railroad. In 1933 he went to work for the Phillips Petroleum Co. In 1937 he started traveling for the company as auditor and later as salesman. He is still interested in all types of sports and his hobby is golf.

James and his wife, Inez Mae (Blake), went through the first grade together in Valley Falls, then James' folks moved away and they did not see each other for twenty years. Her grandmother Blake came from Ireland at the age of sixteen. Inez' hobbies are art and horseback riding. She has recently added golf.

Marilyn, ten year old daughter of James and Inez McGuire, does well in her studies and reads extensively in addition to her school work. She likes music and is learning to play the piano and wants to take voice later. She is interested in the Girl Scouts and likes most outdoor sports.

Mildred Irene, third child of Harry and Frances McGuire, is a talented musician. She played a french horn in the high school orchestra and band. During her senior year she received a scholarship in a French Horn Contest. She attended Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia for two years and two summers and in 1932 received her Life Certificate. While in college she developed an outstanding ability in public speaking and one year represented the college in giving the Kansas Day Address. She was also a member of the Teachers College Orchestra and Band. She taught kindergarten for five years in Lawrence and Wichita, Kansas. While in Lawrence she played in the Kansas University Orchestra. In Wichita she was a supervisor for a Government Nursery School for a while during the war. Mildred loves to care for young children and makes it her hobby. Her husband, Maynard Williams, is regarded very highly as a "public relations" man and people work harmoniously under him. He attended Business School at the Junior College in Hutchinson, Kansas, and later was a student at Kansas University at Lawrence. He is at present Assistant District Manager for the International Harvester Company with headquarters in San Antonio, Texas. Maynard likes all kinds of sports.

Doris Genevieve, fourth child of Harry and Frances McGuire, graduated from Kansas State Teachers College in 1936. She said: "I love all kinds of sports - either playing or on the side lines. Think our two daughters the best contribution we could make to society, hence, I can let the dusting, dishes and ironing go to play with them. The work will still be there for me to do later." She belonged to the college debating team and helped win several tournaments. Her husband, "Buck" Lyman, has A.B. and M.A. degrees from Kansas University. Doris said: "Buck has a twinkle in his eye; plays tennis, golf, and a wonderful bridge game. Never gets angry and gives everyone the benefit of a doubt."

Linda Lou, Doris and Burton's older daughter, called her grandpa: "Sweetie-Pie Harry" and her grandma Fanny or "The Girl." Linda is a blue eyed, dark haired, intelligent child. She plays the piano and makes wonderful grades in school. She is a little too serious but Oh! so dependable. Margo Morris, Linda's younger sister is a happy-go-lucky child with blonde hair, brown eyes and a terrific sense of humor - a little on the "tease" side.

Doris said of her visits to the farm of grandpa and grandma McGuire: "Granddaddy was really something! I remember sitting on the fence watching the 'big kids' stack wood for punishment. The amount depended on the size of their 'crime.' I decided I wasn't going to wash my face and hands before a meal once - and I do mean, once. Grandpa pulled the door to the range oven down, put a basin of water on it and spanked as I washed. Grandma was always an easy mark for a nickel or dime (you could buy something for a nickel then). She always seemed to have a pretty quilt handy to work on in spare moments. I loved to help her seed cherries with an old fashioned seeder, then, help eat the pie."

Roy maintains his own machine shop for repair work. Shopwork is his hobby and fishing is his wife's hobby. He pays this tribute to his parents: "I am very happy to have been raised in a Christian home and want mine to be the same. My father has been very successful in his business and it has been a pleasure to be in partnership with him in farming and stockraising." Roy says that they always looked forward to a grand time when they got to go to Sharon, Kansas, to visit their grandparents, Jim and Lizzie McGuire.

Florence Lorene, only daughter of Roy and Evelyn McGuire, is a good student and finished high school in Laverne, Oklahoma, in 1951.

Archie Davidson, second son of Jim and Lizzie McGuire, and his future wife, Grace Taylor, attended the Church of God Collegiate Institute, at Ft. Scott, Kansas, in 1902-03. May 7, 1904, Arch filed on a homestead in Beaver County (No-Man's Land), Oklahoma Territory. In March 1905 he and his bride established residence on the land. They lived in a covered wagon while Arch and their neighbors built a two-room sod house. This was their home for seven years and cowchips provided fuel for heating and cooking. With their last $10 they bought some groceries and a sod plow. They had a good crop from the forty acres Arch broke and planted. That summer he earned $100 in the Kansas wheat harvest. By hard work, perseverence and faith in God they gradually built a prosperous life.

Ralph Allen, youngest child of Arch and Grace McGuire, is a farmer and stockman. He says that the Christian hospitality developed by his parents is remarkable. The Arch McGuire home is always open to visiting ministers, officials, members of the church, neighbors and friends. Ralph, his brother and sister loved to visit their grandparents, Jim and Lizzie McGuire, in Barber County, Kansas. Sometimes they and their parents would leave home in the evening and drive all night in their Model-T Ford (150 miles) arriving at sun-up to find grandpa standing in the yard with his dog to greet them. The children especially liked grandpa's apple orchard and grandma's apple pies.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS OF CYNTHIA and RAYMOND'S LIFE

Cynthia Ellen, sixth child of Jim and Lizzie McGuire, is very serious minded. She learned to play the organ, later the piano, and to sew when quite young. After high school she taught a year then studied Chiropractic. In the spring of 1916 she passed the first state licensing board examination given Chiropractors in Kansas. She alternated teaching and study at Kansas State College at Manhattan, where she met Raymond Orr, whom she later married. During her junior year in college she designed and made her wedding dress in silk dressmaking class. She taught four years and helped her husband in his photographic studio for eight years.

As Raymond had received a B.S. degree in Animal Husbandry from Kansas State College in 1916, he decided that teaching Vocational Agriculture in high school would be healthier work and less confining than photography. In the spring of 1927 he attended Western State Normal at Gunnison, Colorado. The next fall he entered Colorado State College at Ft. Collins and in January 1928 embarked on his teaching career. After a few months of teaching part-time and evening school classes to farmers in Nebraska, he was offered a position in Wheatland, Wyoming. A better teaching position opened up in Douglas, Wyoming, and the Orr family of five moved there July 1, 1929, and remained eight years.

During all this time, Cynthia continued to be a help-meet, doing her part in caring for the family, doing church work and teaching in Sunday School. Raymond also taught and was Sunday School Superintendent for a time in the Congregational Church in Douglas.

Being very versatile, Raymond was called upon to do many things around the school that others had given up. He never considered that a thing couldn't be done but started at once to devise ways and means for doing it. He liked to teach Shop and taught "his boys" to utilize many discarded materials on the farm. He also taught them to build conveniences in their homes, to hand-tool leather belts and bridles and to keep their tools, machinery and harness in good repair. He encouraged them to bring in old gas engines to rebuild. He made his courses practical. In all his teaching he said: "If I can teach my pupils to think, I will feel that my work is a success."

In his home Raymond provides every possible convenience and remembers all special days plus a few extra ones. He can do most any kind of craft work, such as, leather tooling, wood turning, metal work, fancy lettering and scene painting. He is quite artistic and executes his original designs in show-cards, posters and sign painting. His present hobby is photography. He does his own finishing from making the negative to hanging the large, framed, colored picture. Cynthia's hobbies have been fine sewing, fancy needlework, leather tooling, water color tinting of photographs, and collecting poems. She is now learning to make pictures and color them in oil.

In 1937 Raymond did graduate work at Wyoming University, receiving an M.S. degree in June 1938. There were no jobs in Agriculture open at that time. Through Cynthia's study of UNITY the family had learned that when God closes one door He opens a better one and "All things work together for good to those who love the Lord." Unsolicited, a job in the Wyoming State Department of Education in a different line of work was offered. Raymond accepted it and because of his wealth of experience in many fields and his educational qualifications he had the proper background for his present position of State Supervisor of Occupational Information and Guidance. Since July 1949 Cynthia has served as her husband's secretary when he makes official trips to work in the schools of the State, conducts a State Guidance Conference or is recorder at Regional Conferences.

Calvin Raymond, only son of Cynthia and Raymond Orr, finished high school in 1937 at Douglas, Wyo. He played solo trumpet in the high school orchestra and band. On December 7, 1938, a sophomore in college, Calvin joined the Wyoming National Guard. In the fall of 1940 he entered the Wyoming Aircraft Ground Mechanics Trade School at Cheyenne but the Guard was activated February 24, 1941 before he completed his course. Five of his fifty-eight months of active service were spent in the Philippines and Korea as communications officer for the 1108th Combat Engineers. He attained the rank of Tech. Sergeant. After his discharge Calvin attended Central Radio and Television School in Kansas City, Mo., for a year and was retained by the school as a radio laboratory instructor. After teaching there one and a half years he returned to Wyoming University and graduated in Trade and Industrial Education in August 1950. He is now teaching radio and electricity in the Englewood, Colo., High School.

Calvin does several kinds of craft work such as leather tooling, wood and metal turning and woodwork. He is quite mechanical and likes most shopwork. His hobbies are fishing, hunting Indian artifacts, photography and radio. He holds an amateur radio operator's license and has operated a HAM station since 1946. His present call letters are: W O D I P. His wife, Gayle, does secretarial work, likes to sew and crochet and go fishing.

Of his parents Calvin says: "Between my parents is a wondrous love. Even after thirty odd years of married life, their love has not dimmed, if anything, it has grown. My mother is at my father's side at all times, helping him with his work and giving him love and companionship during the long trips he must make. My parents are devout Christians and we children were brought up in a household of faith and prayer. My mother's study of UNITY has helped us all to lead a fuller and better life."

Helen Elizabeth, older daughter of Cynthia and Raymond Orr, has a fair complexion, brown eyes and dark red hair. She is quite artistic and hand-tinted greeting cards for sale when she was thirteen. She made a dress for herself when she was eleven. She took piano lessons and played clarinet in the high school band. She finished high school in 1940 and did secretarial work until she was married November 1, 1941. During the war she learned to knit. Sewing is her hobby and she makes lots of clothes for herself and her two children. Like her Daddy she has a keen sense of humor and quick wit. Her husband, Gus Obenhaus, has a B.S. degree in Petroleum Engineering, Texas University, 1938, and an M.S. degree in Meteorology, California Institute of Technology, 1943. He served forty-one months in World War II as a meteorologist in the Air Force. He attained the rank of Captain. His hobbies are hunting, fishing and bowling.

Helen pays this tribute to her parents: "As a child I always thought of my parents as the most intelligent people I knew and I have yet to meet anyone who might change my opinion. My father is a man of many talents and ready wit. My mother, who is of a more serious temperament, is looked up to by myself and many others for her wise council."

Mary Ellen, third child of Cynthia and Raymond Orr, took a leading part in activities and athletics in school. In Cheyenne High School she was president of the Sophomore Girls League an organization of 300 members. In junior and senior years she was active in the Pan American Club, Tomahawks and Girls Athletic Association. In swimming she acquired Junior and Senior Life Saving Certificates. For high school athletics she won the "C" sweater with two letters and two stripes. At Colorado State Teachers College, 1944-1946, she majored in physical education with a minor in business administration. In swimming she won a Red Cross scholarship to the Water Safety Instructors Course, National Aquatic School, Morrilton, Arkansas, June 6-16, 1945.

In 1946 Mary Ellen entered employment in the U. S. Employment Service Office, Denver, and attained the rank of senior stenographer. That fall she was offered and accepted a position as assistant to the girl's Physical Education Instructor in Cheyenne High School. In the summer of 1947 she took a refresher course at Chillicothe Missouri Business College. While there she took part in the Annual State Swim Carnival and won third place in competition with contestants from 13 states and several foreign countries. Returning to Cheyenne she took a position with the Business Service which she held until February 1, 1949, when she left to join her husband, Sgt. Clayton Silliman at Randolph Field, Texas. Clayton is now a First Lieutenant, jet fighter pilot in the U. S. Air Force. He has a scholarship to Michigan State University. His hobbies are sketching and playing the Chromatic Harmonica. He does both with considerable skill.

Of her parents Mary Ellen says: "My parents are very sweet. My clothes were the prettiest any one ever had, for my mother can sew beautifully. It was a rare and great privilege to know my mother and daddy knew everything. I find myself quoting them often - even now - with a great deal of pride."

Charles William, seventh child of Jim and Lizzie McGuire, was a farmer except for two years that he retailed gasoline. When Charles' father died, he and his family moved to the McGuire home place. Charles' wife, Grace, pays him this tribute: "Charles was a grand companion, a proud and good father. He was a good Christian and interested in community affairs. He enjoyed playing basketball, baseball, and hunting." Charles and Grace were members of the Church of God that was organized by Grandfather Michael and his family.

Charles died at the age of thirty-six of complications following an operation for ruptured duo-denal ulcer. He is buried in the Sharon cemetery where four generations of the McGuire family are interred. After Charles' death, Grace sold the farm equipment, stock and wheat crop (at 25¢ per bushel, 1931), and bought a home in Garber, Oklahoma, where her parents lived. With four children to raise, Grace worked at various jobs in the depression years. Later she secured a bookkeeping position and by hard work and faith in God put the children through high school.

Fifteen and a half years after Charles' passing and the children all had homes of their own, Grace married Elmer McDaniel, a widower, who had been a friend of the family for many years. Grace has always been active in community affairs and a teacher in the Sunday School. She does beautiful sewing, crocheting and knitting.

This was the beginning of his life work in the Dry Cleaning Business where he has risen to the position of Sanitone Engineer. His hobbies are fishing and golf.

June said of her family: "With the luck of the Irish and the thrift of the Scotch, the A.F. McGuires have ventured down through the years with a consequent result of happiness, security and tranquility. 'Mac', as my Dad is known to the majority of our friends and his associates, has led his small family through quite a 'gypsy-like' life which I think we have enjoyed along with the many rich and profitable experiences that we have known. We lived in Washington, Montana and California, approximately eight years each. With the guidance of Dad and the help of Mother we have all benefited economically, educationally and spiritually. As a unit of people living together over the years we have grown to understand and appreciate each other as autonomous individuals. My folks, through no small sacrifice, are footing the bill for my education. My Dad is a fine father and doting husband. I think I can speak for both my mother and myself when I say that we are proud to be members of the 'McGuire tribe.' "

THOMAS J. and NANNIE (McCREEDY) McGUIRE

Thomas J. McGuire and Nannie McCreedy were married February 23, 1882, and went to Ringold County, near Mt. Ayr, Iowa, to farm. After one year they took their baby girl, Maud, and returned to Washington County, near Ainsworth, Iowa, to live with Nannie's folks for the next year where their second child, Criss, was born.

When Criss was three weeks old, the family moved to Barber County, Kansas, and stayed for awhile with Michael and Belle McGuire, Thomas' father and step-mother, who had gone to Kansas in the spring of 1882. A little later, Thomas and family went to Ford County, near Cimmeron, Kansas, then to Wichita County, near Leoti, where they lived for six years and proved-up on two "claims." They then moved back to Barber County in 1891, near Sharon, Kansas, where they have remained to the present time.

All seven children of Thomas and Nannie McGuire grew to maturity and received most of their education in the schools of Barber County, Kansas. Five of them still live in or near the Sharon Valley Community as this is being written (April 1951). All are substantial citizens and contributed to the growth and development of the community. Thomas and Nannie were charter members of the "Church of God" which they, their father, Michael, and his wife, and their brother James and his wife organized June 15, 1892. On the first Sunday in February, 1897, the new bethel was dedicated. It is located on an acre of land belonging to Thomas and Nannie McGuire.

As George, Tom's half-brother, said: "'Tom and Nan' were willing workers not only for themselves but for neighbors and kin, reminding one that they had been close followers of the Bible. 'Thy work have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee.' They always spoke kindly, thought and acted the same. Their children and grand-children are such as any one would be glad to meet."

Grand-daughter-in-law, Luella Rush, pays this tribute to Thomas McGuire: "I do want to say that I think Grandpa McGuire is one of the sweetest persons I ever knew. His complete lack of envy, discontent, selfishness, or self-pity and his complete faith in the good in everyone and his simple trust in God are an inspiration to all who come in contact with him. To know him is to love him. I only pray that I can, even in a little way, be as tranquil and happy as he seems to be in this, his 94th year. To me he seems to be a person that has lived all his life in such a way that he has no regrets or laments for the past. A Christian man who is sure of his future and is content."

Daughter, Bessie Runyan, says of her parents, Tom and Nan McGuire: "I remember my parents as sincere Christians who read the Bible and prayed daily at the Family Alter with us children kneeling with them. On Sunday we all went to Church and Sunday School and only essential work was done on that day. Children were taught to OBEY and each one was given responsibility for performing his share of the daily tasks."

Maud McGuire attended the Church of God Collegiate Institute, Ft. Scott, Kansas, for a year or two. Here she met W.E. Kelly whom she later married. W.E. studied for the ministry and held several pastorates. He conducted funeral services for Michael McGuire who died August 2, 1905. Maud made an excellent minister's wife as she always tried to live her religion. When her mother's last illness required her presence Maud could be depended upon. After the funeral she and W.E. stayed on to take charge of the farm and make a home for her father, Thomas J. McGuire, who at this writing is 93½ years old.

Vera, older daughter of Maud and W.E. Kelly, says that her parents have always had a grand sense of humor. They could laugh at critical moments and difficulties seemed to straighten themselves out. Vera says she would like to be as even tempered as her father and as ambitious as her mother.

Married 2. JANICE LUCINDA HEINZ

Vera Kelly and her husband, John Heinz, attended separate business schools in Wichita, Kansas, but were both employed in the auditor's office of the Orient Railroad, later sold to the Santa Fe. John's father wanted him to farm instead of accepting a transfer by the railroad so John and Vera moved to Kinsley, Kansas, about the time the dust storms started. He farmed but also took a job as bulk agent for Standard Oil Company to tide them over when their crops were blown away or covered up. Later they took over a filling station and garage. They added merchandise until now they have a good business. Sewing for two daughters Vera says is her part-time job. She works one-half day at the garage.

Berthena, older daughter of Vera and John Heinz, is finishing her first year at Marymount College. She is quick and efficient in everything she does. She sings and her hobbies are tap dancing and swimming.

Janice, Vera and John's younger daughter, is learning to play the piano and to tap dance. She is more calm and deliberate in her work than her sister.

John Heinz is active in civic organizations and loves to sing. He is a member of the Kiwanis quartet, community chorus and choir. The quartet was first organized for pleasure but has become in great demand for appearances on various programs.

Vera remembers her grandma (Nannie McGuire) in her good black dress and grandpa (Thomas McGuire) all dressed up to go to town in the black surrey to take the cream and eggs. Vera would get a nickel's worth of candy and sometimes material for a new dress. Then, one could never forget those luscious peaches and apples and grandma's apple butter.

Margaret Marcia, younger daughter of Maud and W.E. Kelly, was noted for her friendliness in high school. She could call by name five-hundred of the six-hundred forty students in her class at East High School, Wichita, Kansas. After graduation she was a sales clerk for two years in a Kress store in Wichita. Her husband, Jere Crepps, attended the University of Wichita two and a half years. He then took one year at aircraft welding school and six months of arc welding, four years as a carpenter's apprentice and a one year architectural correspondence course. Now a carpenter, Jere is helping to build a 500 acre Addition to San Diego, California. During the war he was in the Navy as a Radar instructor and attained the rank of Petty Officer 2nd Class. Their hobby is photography, both movies and stills.

Homer, third child of Criss and Estella McGuire, says his father's chief interest was to watch his boys play basketball. He would praise their athletic ability to visiting fans. If someone wanted to know who he was, he'd say: "Oh, just one of the Jones'."

Homer says he shall always cherish the many memories of his grandpa and grandma, Tom and Nan McGuire, The thing he remembers most as a kid was grandma's ability to know exactly where the cockle-burs were in the west forty that they had missed pulling. The boys finally found out as they grew older that grandpa was the one who had made the discovery but he would never say a word as grandma was telling where the burs were.

Elinor, ninth child in Criss and Estella McGuire's family of seven boys and two girls, liked all kinds of sports, especially footracing in which she was never beaten. She attended the Boeing Aircraft defense school and blue print classes in Wichita, Kansas. She was a riveter for two years before going to Portland, Oregon, where she was employed by General Mills and Company.

Raymond Alexander graduated from the Corning, Kansas, high school in the early 1930's. Later he went to work for John Morril and Company where he remained until 1943. At that time he went to Portland, Oregon, where he became a supervisor for General Mills and Company. While there he was Elinor's supervisor until they decided to get married and go back to Kansas and farm. Raymond likes most all sports and reading.

Elinor says that her father, Criss McGuire, was very fond of sports and proud of his family's athletic abilities. Nearly every afternoon one could find him out playing baseball with his seven boys before returning to the field. Her mother, too was a good ball player.

Elinor remembers her grandparents, Tom and Nan McGuire, for their knack of raising chickens and for their fine orchard. She said: "Better apples I have never eaten."

Bessie Mae, fourth child of Tom and Nan McGuire, received her high school education in Barber County, Kansas. She and her husband, Guy Runyan of Montour County, Pennsylvania, lived on a farm in Kansas for about twelve years before moving to southern California where Guy worked as a driller in the oil fields. Bessie took a course in flower arrangement at night school. She has diplomas from correspondence courses in Bible study and home making. She is an expert in flower growing and gardening. In 1948 she raised a sweet potato weighing 47½ pounds. Bessie's picture with the potato was published in the March 4, 1948, issue of the Los Angeles Examiner and several other leading newspapers and nursery magazines. It was the largest sweet potato on record to that date. Bessie said that she received lots of mail about it including a letter from a merchant in Africa, also several letters wanting to know if she had a husband.

Bessie and Guy and their two sons, Ilard and Jeff, have had television sets in their homes since the beginning of T.V. on the West Coast about 1948.

Ilard Seidel, older son of Bessie and Guy Runyan, relates that one of the happiest phases of his life was spent as a boy in the peace and quiet of a Kansas farm. After his parents moved to California and he finished high school, Ilard worked as a salesman. In February 1942 he joined the U.S Air Force and spent thirty-six of his forty-four months service overseas in the European theater. He was in the battles of Normandy beach; Northern France; Ardennes; Central Europe and the Rhineland. He attained the rank of Sergeant. Of war Ilard said: "God only knows just how terrible it is and my prayer is that we never have to experience another one." While in France he met and married a lovely French girl. His hobby is collecting guns and old coins.

Ilard pays this tribute to his parents: "My father and mother are two of the finest people any son could want. We had our ups and downs but there is one thing our parents taught us to do whenever there is a problem. It is to sit down and talk it over."

Jefferson Troy, second son of Bessie and Guy Runyan, was eight years old when his family moved from Kansas to California. His chief interest was in machinery of all kinds. He got his first motorcycle when he was thirteen. His parents gave him a little room upstairs for a home-workshop. Before he had finished the tenth grade he had built an ear-phone radio set for the family - their first. After two years of high school he attended night school for two years while he worked for Clymer Motorcycle Co. In 1937 he went to work for Robertson Truckaway Machine Co. on motorcycles and trucks. When World War II started Jeff went into aircraft building, took tests in welding and acquired a "Class A, Group I" classification. After the war he returned to work for Robertson Truckaway Machine Co. building car-hauling trucks. Later he established his own shop and developed the 4-WAY BUMPER for trucks for which he received a patent, No. 2438578, on March 31, 1948. His brother, Ilard, is associated with him in the manufacture and sale of the bumper. Jeff's hobby is motorcycles. His wife, Mildred, is a girl's leader in the Mutual Improvement Association of the L.D.S. Church. Her hobby is cake decorating in which she took a training course. She also likes to ride motorcycles with her husband.

REBECCA JANE McGUIRE and SYLVANUS W. ALFRED

Rebecca Jane McGuire, eighth child of Michael and Lucinda (Edwards) McGuire, and Sylvanus W. Alfred were married September 18, 1879 and lived in Iowa until the spring of 1902 when they moved to a farm near Sharon, Barber County, Kansas. "Vene" Alfred, as he was called, raised Duroc Jersey hogs and watermelons on a large scale. His hogs took many prizes at county and state fairs. His melon field covered forty acres and yielded from sixteen to eighteen train-car loads of melons each season. These were shipped to widely scattered markets. Each August the Alfreds gave a watermelon party for everyone who could get to the farm near Sharon. The only request made of the crowds who attended was that they put the seeds into troughs that were provided.

Vene Alfred was also a poultry fancier. He raised game fowl, peacocks, guineas and purebred chickens and turkeys. He won many prizes on his poultry exhibits at the fairs. He was also an ardent lover and grower of flowers. After the family moved to Enid, Oklahoma Vene had beautiful beds of roses and many other flowers. This was more than a hobby. He crossed Dahlias and developed a red one which took a prize at the Oklahoma State Flower Show about 1914. This Dahlia was later named for him by the Oklahoma State Flower Growers Association.

Jane Alfred was a good Christian and trained their three sons in honest, clean living. As the boys reached adolescense she promised a prize of Five Dollars (a great deal of money in those days) to each one, who at the age of twenty-one had not used tobacco in any form. Jane's diary for 1907 tells of Albia receiving his Five Dollars.

Jane Alfred was an excellent cook and children for miles around remembered her for her delicious cookies. Her cooky jar seemed always to have a fresh supply, Jane liked to sew and read. The following motto by James Whitcomb Riley was her favorite: "Speaking makes a ready man, writing makes an exact man, and reading makes a perfect man."

In later years after Jane died, one of their granddaughters said of Vene Alfred: "Grandfather was a grand old fellow. Maybe a little on the 'too easy' side but I thought he was wonderful. He could tell the most exciting stories and I would sit and listen to him for hours. After Grandmother died Grandpa lived alone and he had about five dogs that were all small and white. He would talk to them as you would to a person and they seemed to understand everything he said and they did all kinds of tricks."

In his declining years when Vene Alfred lived in Oklahoma City he bought ten or twelve acres of land for tax title to a new townsite addition that went bankrupt. Since his death there are oil wells all over the place.

LILLIAN STEVENS

Edgar, eldest son of Jane and "Vene" Alfred, was an artist with his brush, pen and pen knife. He traveled about the country painting pictures for sale to the crowds that gathered to see the scene grow before their eyes. He could also produce beautiful bird pictures with a flourish of the pen. Another skill that was quite unique was his ability to take a piece of card stock and with pen knife carve a pretty flower or bird on the surface of it. He made post cards in this way and these were about the first picture post cards to go through the mails in the early 1900's. If desired he would carve a name or two with the design. Edgar was also an artist on ice. He did beautiful figure skating and put on many exhibitions, alone and with his brothers, Clarence and Albia.

In his later years, Edgar, seeking a warmer climate went to Gold Beach, Oregon. There he builds boats that are used for "sport" salmon fishing. That season begins April 1 and ends October 31. He also designs and builds racing boats.

Clarence, second son of Jane and "Vene" Alfred, was given only one name by his parents. Fern tells this story concerning his initial "D." When the children were small, his younger brother, Albia, could not say "Clarence" so called him "Dote." In later years Clarence always signed his name "D. Clarence Alfred."

Clarence liked music and played a bass horn in the band wherever they lived. He enjoyed sports, too, especially baseball. His skating ability both on ice and roller skates was outstanding. He won several prizes for his exhibitions on roller skates.

After his parents moved to Oklahoma, Clarence worked for different Automobile Tire Companies until 1918 when he established his own tire shop in Enid. In 1921 after Rozetta's (Albia's wife) funeral, when Paul Richard was only three or four days old, Clarence took the baby home with him on the train, a distance of a thousand miles. It was a trip that even a woman might hesitate to make with so young a child. Paul, although never legally adopted, was given a son's place in the hearts and home of Clarence and Fern Alfred. Clarence was a member of the Central Christian Church, a Mason and also belonged to the United Commercial Travelers.

In 1932 Clarence began working for the postal service as mail messenger under contract and continued in this work until 1939. Then, he and his family moved to Missouri and bought a farm. A few years later he was stricken with a heart attack and died without regaining consciousness. In paying tribute to her husband, Fern said: "Clarence was a fine man, none better. I realized my great loss when he was gone."

BUDD WOLLESON - Oct. 13, 1910 -
(Rancher, farmer)

Dorothy Clarice, daughter of Clarence and Hazel Alfred, attended Northwestern State Teachers College, Alva, Oklahoma, for two years studying music and art with a major in English. During the next two years she conducted a dancing school in Alva with an enrollment of 135 pupils. She attended and graduated from the Wichita Kansas Business College during the depression of the 1930's. Since no clerical jobs were available Dorothy took a position in a fine arts school in Enid, Oklahoma. When war broke out she entered Civil Service and obtained a position with the U.S. Air Force in Enid. Other positions were offered and she worked at various places in the war effort including Pampa, Texas, a British flying school, a prisoner of war camp at Tonkawa, Oklahoma, for Germans taken during the battle with Rommel. The last job was with the U.S. Government which Dorothy held until Budd came back from overseas and they were married Jan. 17, 1944. Since then Dorothy has established her own business, "Hand Painting for Distinction." This consists of hand painting on table linens, draperies, clothing and other textiles for the wholesale trade.

Budd Wolleson is the son of a Norwegian sea captain. His mother came to this country from Germany when she was fourteen years old. Budd graduated from Oklahoma A. and M. College and then spent five years in military service, Signal Corps, 7th Armored Division with four years overseas. He was the messenger who carried messages between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill during the Conference at the Ampha Hotel in Casablanca, Africa. He was also special messenger for a time for General George S. Patton and states that the General was a wonderful man. Since his discharge, Budd has operated his ranch near Perry, Oklahoma.

EULA MAE HORTON - July 6, 1925 -

Paul Richard pays this tribute to Clarence and Fern: "Dad and Mother were the most wonderful parents anyone could ever have. To me Dad was the greatest man who ever lived. He never feared anything and never had an enemy. That goes for Mother, too. They will always be Dad and Mother to me. I met Albia and Audrey and was with them overnight about three years ago (1948). It was wonderful to see them and I'm sure Albia was just like Dad. Audrey did a marvelous job of raising the family. Albia told me all about Rozetta (my mother). I'm sure she was a wonderful person but it was all like a story book to me. I met my sister, Marjorie, when Dad died but I have never met any of my brothers since I was old enough to remember. I liked Marjorie very much and some day I hope to meet my three brothers."

After high school graduation in 1938, Paul worked a year driving the U.S. mail truck for his Dad. In September 1939 he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force at Randolph Field, Texas, and served more than ten years mostly in aircraft maintenance. At various times he was assigned as flight engineer and aerial photographer. He served with the Training Command, 20th Air Force (B-29s on Guam was his only wartime combat service), Far Eastern Air Force and Strategic Air Command. Following the war he served with the Strategic Air Command in Okinawa, Guam, England, Germany and Tripoli. At present (1951) Paul is with the Postal Transportation Service at Air Mail Field, San Francisco, where all International air mail for the Far East is handled.

Paul's favorite hobby is music. He plays trumpet and has played in different types of bands both in the United States and overseas. He has ambition to learn to play the piano well.

Eula Mae finished high school in 1941. During the post was years she joined her husband whenever and wherever possible. In 1948 she was with him on Okinawa for three months. She is at present a commercial bookkeeper for the Bank of America at San Bruno, California. She likes to cook, keep house and is learning to sew.

On May 4, 1947, the Reverend Dr. James W. Gladden of the Methodist Church of Atwater, Ohio, dedicated a Hammond organ given to the church by the Albia Alfred family and church friends in memory of Carl Alfred and in appreciation of the others who served their country, 1941-1945.

Married — 5. ROBERT M. ALFRED (watchmaker)

Married 7-1-1941 — 6. PAUL R. ALFRED (airplane mechanic)
EULA MAE HORTON - July 6, 1925 -

Albia Alfred with his parents and two brothers moved from Iowa to Barber County Kansas in 1902. He worked on his father's farm while completing rural school, then attended and graduated from Fort Scott Collegiate Institute, Fort Scott, Kansas. It was there he met Rozetta Daggett whom he later married. Rozetta majored in music, played the piano well and sang by note. Albia had a good voice and enjoyed the church choir, especially in later years. They both taught school

While attending Kansas University, one of the professors told Albia that he should have a middle name. So Albia chose "Lawrence", the name of the town.

Albia's children say of him: "His whole life was based on the principle of the Golden Rule. We have never seen him really angry or known him to smoke,drink,or use a profane word. He used to say that a person who swore was displaying his inability to express himself in a better way. He proved this by always finding a quiet, gentle way of saying what was no his mind. He was loved by his neighbors and friends. He was a good farmer but would have made as good a mechanic."

Rozetta died when Paul Richard, their sixth child, was born. Albia's mother, Jane Alfred, stayed to help him care for his home and children. Three years later Audrey M. Washburn, accepted the opportunity to satisfy her longing for a family and render a service by making a home for Albia and his five children. She says of him: "I have never regretted marrying Albia Alfred.I wish you could know him as I do. He is a fine Christian,honest in all things, has a most cheerful nature and is a true and loving companion. We are very happy.Surely God has had a hand in guiding our lives together.I don't think it would be possible for me to love my own flesh and blood more than I do his children. I think of them only as mine. It is doubtful if our friends would believe us if we told them differently." Albia says, "Audrey has been an ideal mother and wife. The children think of her only as 'Mother.' We are fortunate indeed to have her."

Marjorie says of her step-mother, Audrey: "She stepped in and took the place of a mother, one of the hardest places to fill. She did it so willingly and effectively that few realized that she was not our own mother. She is an expert at good management and can accomplish as much in one day as many people can in two. To us she has always been 'Mother.' "

None of their sons wanted to be farmers.Their children were all fine Christians of whom anyone could be proud.The Alfreds made many friends in the various communities where they lived. They were broad minded and tolerant in religious matters. Formerly Methodists, they joined the United Brethren Church when they moved from Atwater, Ohio, to Mendon, Michigan,in order to better affiliate with the people in the new community. They were always looking at the bright side and counting their blessings often. As their lives were never without problems, they prayed, not for new clothes as when they were children, but for new hearts greater strength and more courage in the security of their faith. In Audrey's own words, "We welcome the years ahead together. Personally, I feel I am a better woman today because of the companionship of Albia Alfred."

Those years were few. Albia's life was given in serving his fellow man. During a spell of severe weather and snow early in 1950 he over exerted himself while helping his friends and neighbors fight their way through almost impassable roads. He collapsed with a heart condition that brought about his death less than a year later. His life on the physical plane ended October 18, 1950, with these words: "See, mamma, there comes my chariot with two white horses and I am ready." A hallowed mantle enveloped those who were present. "His whole life was an example anyone would do well to follow." - Robert M. Alfred

Robert M. Alfred was an ambulance driver in the Medical Corps during World War II. He served for 36 months overseas in Europe and Africa. His job was not to fight but to care for the sick and wounded, a service of inestimable value. He received five battle stars on his European Theater of Operations Campaign ribbon.

Robert says, "I do not remember my own mother as I was only two when she died." To his "adopted mother" he pays this tribute: "How my father managed to find a woman so able and so ideally suited to take the place of our mother, I shall never know. I think special mention should be given to a woman who was willing to give up so much in the way of position and worldly things, to take on the tedious and oftimes worrisome job of bringing up five boisterous youngsters, not originally her own. That made no difference, however, for with kindness and understanding, she made them her own in spirit, if not in fact. She embarked on this career all for the love of one man - my father. THE FAMILY OF

M. ELLEN McGUIRE and AMOS KEENE WINSOR

M. Ellen McGuire, ninth child of Michael and Lucinda (Edwards) McGuire of Ainsworth, Iowa, was married September 8, 1880, to Amos K. Winsor, the agent and telegrapher for the Rock Island Railroad at Washington, Iowa. Ellen and Amos lived five years in Washington where their two children, Frank and Elsie were born. In 1885 Amos was transferred to Keota, Iowa, where they lived until 1898.

Amos' hobby was riding the new "safety bicycle" that came out in the "gay nineties." Every three years, Ellen and Amos would go to Barber County, Kansas, to visit Ellen's father, Michael McGuire and family and her brother, James McGuire and family. Amos was a good hunter and could kill a rabbit on the run. During one of their visits another brother, Abe, was there. The McGuires took their guests to the cedar hills to show them the cedar canyon. On that trip Abe shot a prairie chicken on the wing.

Michael and James McGuire raised great quantities of peaches. Most of the relatives planned their visits to Barber County during the peach season. Amos would say: "I've seen the time when I would give a quarter to someone to let me eat all the peaches I want."

Ellen, Amos and their two children made one of their visits to Kansas in 1888, the year Benjamin Harrison was elected President. Frank, the son, won a cap with the President's name on it.

In 1898, Amos was transferred to Hastings, Nebraska, where he stayed for three years. In 1901, he was sent to Grayson, Missouri. Here he supplemented his meager salary from the railroad by keeping a few dairy cows and chickens. He was a tithing Christian. He felt that his possessions belonged to the Lord, and his pocketbook always had money for worthy causes.

Ellen Winsor was an excellent cook and seamstress. Her nursing ability was evidenced by the fact that she was at every sick bed in Grayson and assisted at every birth within miles of that town.

In the winter of 1918 Amos became ill with a cold which developed into pneumonia from which he died on February 2. Before he passed away, Ellen, too, became ill and died on February 8 without knowing that her husband had preceeded her.

Clifton R. Allen learned telegraphy at the age of fourteen and worked for a number of railroads for more than ten years. At the age of twenty-three he worked nights as a telegrapher and attended Kidder Institute, Kidder, Missouri, during the day. Later, Cliff entered Kansas University but transferred to the University of Southern California Law School where he graduated. He opened his law office in Fullerton, California in 1911.

Cliff's hobby is Scouting. He has worked with the Scouts in Fullerton for 32 years. He was President of the Orange County Council, Boy Scouts of America for two years. He has the Silver Beaver award. He was a delegate to the National Scout Convention in Philadelphia in 1950 and attended the National Jamboree at Valley Forge the same year. Cliff was given a big ovation when he retired from active Scout service. The younger fellows carrying on call him the "Big Wheel" because of his good advice and continued interest. Cliff is equally active in Sunday School work. He has the ability to keep the boys and girls interested and coming when others failed.

Frank, the only son of Ellen and Amos Winsor, followed in his father's footsteps and became a telegrapher, also. When the family lived in Hastings, Nebraska, Frank met Gertrude Tobie whom he later married. Four sons were born to them. Gertrude was always busy with her home and children. When Paul, the youngest living son was twenty, Gertrude and Frank took their five-weeks old granddaughter, Elva Frances to raise as their own. That was a big undertaking for any couple who had raised their own family to maturity. After 43 years service with the Union Pacific Railroad, Frank retired and he and Gertrude moved to a little farm in northeastern Kansas. In the spring of 1951 they sold out and moved to Fullerton, California, where Frank's sister, Elsie Allen lives.

Frank's hobby since he was in grade school has been fancy poultry. Gertrude's special interest is reading.

Harold Robert, oldest son of Frank and Gertrude Winsor, became a newspaper publisher. At present, he owns a paper in Boonville, Missouri, and another in Canton, Illinois. In 1947, he built a radio broadcasting station at Canton. He and his wife, Harriett (Barrons) Winsor have one son, John Barrons.

Harold says that the first money he ever had was from a calf that his grandfather, Amos Winsor, gave him one summer when he visited his grandparents in Grayson, Missouri. He was eleven or twelve years old at the time. When he returned to his home his grandfather sold the calf and sent him the thirty dollars it brought.

It was about 1928 when Willard Ira, second son of Frank and Gertrude Winsor, joined the Navy and made it his career. He became Chief Yoeman. On May 10, 1930, Willard married Margaret Standing Bear and they had one daughter, Elva Frances. Margaret's health was poor and she was unable to care for her child. Willard's parents took the baby and cared for her from the time she was five weeks old. In March 1935 Margaret died and in October 1935 Frank and Gertrude legally adopted their granddaughter, Elva Frances.

When the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, Willard was among those taken prisoner. On October 24, 1944, he lost his life when the prison ship bound for Japan was torpedoed and sunk.

Daughter Elva's chief interests are music, shorthand and typing. Elva's husband, Richard Spohn, likes music and horseback riding. Elva's mother, Margaret, was one-half Sioux Indian.

Marjorie Aileen, oldest child of Elsie and Cliff Allen, graduated from Pomona College and took graduate work at both University of Southern California and Claremont College. She has alternated work as secretary and teacher. Taught three years at Claremont High School, and directed plays at other public and private schools. Her hobby is dramatics--acting, directing and writing. Wrote and directed at the famous Padua Hills Playhouse - Mexican Players - for 1½ years. Has acted as secretary to Ludwig Bemelmans, famous writer; Phyllis Loughton Seaton, dialog director in movies; and Olivia de Havilland.

In March 1948 Marjorie went to Arabia to work as medical secretary for Arabian-American Oil Company. In December, went to India, where Cloyd and she were married. They came home by freighter (Norwegian) through Ceylon, Malaya, and the Philippines. She and Cloyd now live on a Hollywood hilltop.

Cloyd E. Laibe was born in Columbus Grove, Ohio. He attended different schools in Ohio and California. Worked in air conditioning and refrigeration. Went to Arabia in 1947 to do the same kind of work then went to India. While in India he saw so many beautiful things he got the idea of importing them. He made many contacts while there and set the rest up by mail. He is now doing a very fine wholesale business with stores in California, Arizona and Nevada. He is expanding his business by mail to Florida and other eastern states. He hopes to establish a good mail order business, if the war doesn't interfere with shipping or personal plans.

ABRAHAM L. and VIRGIE (CRIM) McGUIRE

Abraham L. McGuire and Virgie Crim were married October 10, 1889, near Columbus Junction, Louisa County, Iowa. Except for the first year or two when they rented a farm in Washington County, they lived on the same farm until their death.

Abe McGuire was a good farmer, carpenter and blacksmith. He liked to work with his hands repairing his and his neighbor's machinery. People would go to his home when he was busy in the field to have him repair something. He would say, "Take my team," then, he would go to his shop and do their work - free.

Abe was a quiet, honest, industrious person with simple tastes. A God-fearing, humble man who had no vices or bad habits. He enjoyed none of the frivolities that many people today find important. He and Virgie always worked and gave of their substance for any good cause. Although members of the Church of God at Salem, Iowa, they transferred their membership to the Methodist Church in Gladwin only one and one-half miles from their home. They gave a great deal of their time and money to help build this church and Virgie was Sunday School Superintendent there for many years. She had definite ideas about religion. She always said: "It doesn't matter what other people do that's wrong - that isn't the fault of religion. It's what you do yourself that counts." Abe and Virgie brought their children up in the right way and taught them obedience.

Virgie wasn't as quiet as her husband but was always busy and was faster in her work. Her reputation as a fine cook spread rapidly. In the 1890's there were a great many agents and traveling men who made regular trips about the country on foot and with teams. They nearly always managed to get to Abe McGuire's place about dark. Virgie's specialty was her excellent butter. She shipped 80 to 100 pounds a week to Muscatine, Iowa, where she received a top price of 22½ to 25 cents per pound. She was a fine seamstress, too, and taught her three daughters to sew as well as cook.

Abe and Virgie were also interested in community affairs. Abe's athletic ability was well known for miles around. Whenever there was a celebration he would offer competition in such events as running and jumping. He had a big following of young people who thought he just couldn't be beat and he very seldom was.

May, eldest child of Abe and Virgie McGuire, was ideally suited to become the wife of William Herbert Swailes, a farm boy in their community. When they were married in 1911 they lived on Herbert's old home place in Washington County, Iowa. May loved the farm and kept busy doing whatever was to be done. Always steady and dependable, she could be counted upon to lend a hand wherever and whenever needed. Her home and family and mending took top priority.

Herbert's hobby was a herd of registered Jersey cattle which he showed on every occasion and at the fairs. He was an excellent mechanic and enjoyed working with machinery. His biggest delight was to fix something sone one else had given up. He was a good farmer and in later years a dealer in farm implements.

Maynard Foch, only son of May and Herbert Swailes, born just before Armistice Day in 1918, was given the name, "Foch," in honor of the famous General commanding the Allied Armies in Europe. Like his father, Maynard is a farmer. He was also associated with his father in the farm implement business but has recently gone back to farming. He likes tools and machinery and is an excellent welder.

In high school Maynard went all-out for sports - football, basketball and baseball. In the army he took up boxing. Thirty-six of his forty-four months service were spent in Africa and Europe where he fought in Algeria, French Morocco, Tunisia, Sicily, Foggia, Rome, Arno, Southern France and the Rhineland. Decorations and citations received include the following: American ribbon, European African Middle Eastern ribbon with silver and bronze battle stars; bronze service arrowhead; purple heart; one service stripe and five overseas service bars. His special job was truck driver and he became a Corporal.

Marcella, Maynard's wife, finished high school in 1942. She did secretarial work for two years then went to Portland, Oregon, and worked in the shipyards till the end of the war. She likes the farm and is a good cook and homemaker.

In September 1923 Milt started from his home in Iowa for Meridian, Mississippi, to visit his sister, Elsie Edwards. As he crossed into Kentucky he noticed that the barns all seemed to be afire. Near Fulton he stopped at a farm to inquire about the right road and satisfy his curiosity about the barns. There was a man on the porch leisurely churning butter in a stone and dasher churn. When asked why there was smoke coming out of all the barns the man took Milt to his barn and showed him how they cured tobacco. The man insisted that Milt stay for supper. When Milt was ready to leave his new friend said: "When you're ready to get married, come down and I'll find you a nice southern girl."

Three years later Milt passed that way again and stopped for the night with his southern friend. His friend's sister, Dollie, was visiting him - he hadn't even mentioned to Milt that he had a sister. Milt relates: "Well, had I known it I would not have waited so long to return. When I asked her the sixty-four dollar question - nosir! she wouldn't give me an answer. She said she would have to think it over for a week. A few months later we were married."

Dollie is renowned for her excellent cooking. Her large garden is shared with the neighbors and she is active in all community affairs. Milt likes to farm and is especially interested in livestock. His hobby is reading. Daughter Velma loves to read and do needlework. Son Kenneth likes to hunt, fish and trap and he enjoys farming, working with machinery and doing woodwork at school.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS OF ELSIE P. (McGUIRE) EDWARDS' LIFE

Elsie Pearl, fourth child of Abe and Virgie McGuire, attended Iowa State Teachers College and later taught in the public schools of that state. She was a devout Christian and fervent church-goer. At the time of her marriage she was planning to attend the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago. She made an excellent minister's wife because she was intensely interested in religion and tried with all her might to live it. She was able to fill the pulpit for her minister husband when necessary. He called her a modern "John the Baptist."

Elsie was known everywhere for her vivacious, engaging personality, her gracious ways, cheerful smile and her sincerity about everything she did. She had a tremendous vocabulary and gave her children material aid in preparation for their school years. Around the house she required good grammar and good manners. She helped them with their home work and in general did a great deal to overcome inertia associated with their studies.

Elsie's untimely passing (from leukemia) made an indelible impression upon all who witnessed it. First, she made her will. Then she called each one separately, gave him her blessing and urged him to give more of his life to the service of Christ. She planned her funeral service, even naming the ministers who were to take part. Perhaps the most impressive of all was her final conversation with her preacher husband concerning immortality. Their conversation ended with repeating the last prayer, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly." And He came while the words were yet framed upon her lips. No one in that silent room doubted that. "And they were all amazed at the power of God."

Elsie's husband, Sidney William Edwards, a Methodist minister, was also a good salesman. He was an organizer, too, but impatient with details. He had a very good mind and was an excellent speaker. After the Spanish-American war he spent twenty-five years in the mission fields of South and Central America. His son, Sidney, Jr., paid him this tribute: "My father was a big man who could tell the most interesting stories regarding almost any subject. He always had a great store of information about the questions which I and my sisters were always asking. Quite often he would regale us with his anecdotes of the Spanish-American war."

Elsie Grace, first child of Elsie and Sidney Edwards, was born in Meridian, Mississippi, just twenty-five miles from York, Alabama, where her future husband was born less than a year earlier. She was an excellent student and was valedictorian of her class in high school. She did equally well in College, finishing four years work in three. She and her husband, Ralph W. Nichols, were married in their senior year in Birmingham-Southern College where they received their A.B. degrees in June 1945. Then Ralph studied four years in the School of Theology, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, where he received his Bachelor of Divinity degree. While Ralph continued his graduate work, Elsie Grace taught school both in Nashville and Birmingham.

Ralph Wesley Nichols, youngest in a family of six children, (two Methodist ministers, two doctors and two college professors) is the son of a retired railroad superintendent. He is a fully ordained minister since 1949 and is now pastor of the First Methodist Church, Eutaw, Alabama.

Sidney William, Jr., six feet two and only son of Elsie and Sidney William Edwards, was born in Poplarville, Mississippi, October 25, 1929, and "enjoyed" the childhood of a depression baby. One of his earliest recollections was that of a young calf which his father named NRA. Prior to the third grade Sidney's mother taught him at home. After high school he entered Birmingham Southern College but left for the Marine Corps before the quarter was ended. He served three years and became Communications Specialist with the rank of Sergeant. After his discharge he entered George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee. He expects to receive his B.S. degree in December, 1951.

Sidney's wife, Ruth (Woolwine) Edwards, Although born in Mobile, Alabama, has lived nearly all her life in Nashville. She tells the amusing incident that on the very first day she attended school she was put on the first seat because she talked too much. Ruth, also a student at George Peabody College for Teachers, will receive her B.S. degree in Home Economics in August, 1951.

As she grew up Lucinda liked to work with her hands - to sew and draw which she did well. After high school she took voice for two years at Chicago Musical College. After her marriage her interests turned to home and family while the children were small. Later she took up golf and also became interested in civic affairs. She is a member of the Women's Lyric Chorus which gives several concerts during the winter.

Lucinda's husband, Francis Lanz, is co-owner and manager of an electroplating business in Chicago. He is very interested in civic affairs and served for several years on the recreation committee of Riverside, Illinois, their home town. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Riverside Bank and of the Board of Directors of the Country Club to which he and lucinda have belonged for several years. Frank is athletic and in his younger days played a good game of tennis. Later he took up golf and plays a very good game.

Thomas Francis, only son of Lucinda and Francis Lanz, is a student in a Military Academy. He likes to work in his father's plant. At present his hobby is collecting phonograph records - hundreds of 'em.

June Luellen, only daughter of Lucinda and Francis Lanz, has dark hair, grey eyes and olive skin. She is a fine swimmer and a good diver. She is on the swimming team at the Country Club and participates in the meets during the summer.

THE FAMILY OF

GEORGE and MINNIE M. (FREITAG) McGUIRE

George W., eldest of Michael and Belle McGuire's three children, was born near Columbus Junction, Iowa. When he was four years old his parents moved to Barber County, Kansas. He has been a devout Christian and student of the Bible all his life. He could always be depended upon to attend Sunday services at the Church of God which was founded by his parents and half-brothers. If the weather were bad George would walk across the fields in the early Sunday morning to light the fire so that the building would be warm when the neighbors began to arrive for Sunday School.

George says his hobbies are picking up pretty stones and memorizing Bible verses. Here are a few of his favorite verses: "Take heed therefore unto yourselves and to all the flock over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers to feed the Church of God which He hath purchased with His own blood."--Acts 20:28. "Fear thou not for I am with thee; be not dismayed for I am thy God."-Isa. 41:10. "Commit thy way unto Jehovah, trust also in Him and He will bring it to pass."-Psalms 37:5. "The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make His face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up His countenance upon thee and give thee peace."-Num. 6:24,25,26. "And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good."-Rom. 8:28. "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your minds."Rom. 12:2. "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength."-Isa. 30:15. A few others are: Mark 4:39; Psalms 118:24; Rom. 8:31; II Chron. 20:17; John 3:16; John 13:17 and "The Sermon on the Mount."-Matt. 5, 6, 7.

George McGuire rarely writes a letter that does not have Bible quotations and Bible references interspersed through it. He also gives many well known quotations such as the following which is taken from one of his letters: "When we heard about Mrs. Cynthia Briggs death we were sorry. Her life was well spent. So many boys and girls were well trained by her head, hand and heart. 'Guard well thy thoughts, thy thoughts are heard in heaven,' is a line she gave her pupils to copy."

Of his wife, George says: "Minnie May is a very busy help-mate, lover and friend. She is up early in the morning and late at night. Her hobby seems to be work and more work."

Louis, third child of George and Minnie McGuire, pays this tribute to his parents: "My parents have wrestled a living from the Kansas plains for themselves and five children - no small achievement. They remain loyal to the Great Central Plains and cannot be induced to leave them for transitory comforts in fairer climes."

OLIVE McGUIRE and JESSE F. TALIAFERRO

Olive, only daughter of Michael and Belle McGuire, was born near Washington, Iowa. She was nearly three when her parents moved to Barber County, Kansas, where she lived most of her life. When she was nineteen Olive married Jesse Taliaferro a farm boy in the community. Five children were born to them.

Olive has a pleasing personality and is loved by all who know her. When the children were still small it became necessary for her to work at various jobs in order to keep her family together, fed and clothed. She took care of her mother, Belle, during her mother's last illness and for several years prior to it. Since her mother's death in March 1936 Olive has devoted much of her time to practical nursing in southern Kansas and eastern Colorado. In 1947 she moved with her daughter, Zanoni, to Tacoma, Washington. Her hobby is needlepoint embroidery.

Olive's daughter, Dolores, says of her mother: "She is a wonderful mother and loves company. I know it was difficult for her to keep all five of us children together but I'm glad she did. I shall always feel so thankful, too, that she sent me to The Deaf School at Olathe, Kansas, when I wasn't progressing in the public school because of hearing difficulties."

Olive's nephew and wife, Louis and Frances McGuire, say of her: "Aunt Olive is our favorite Aunt. She is the soul of western hospitality as so many of her friends, relatives and acquaintances realize when they visit her home on La Kota Beach at Tacoma. She can bake the best bread and hot rolls you ever tasted and always keeps freshly made blackberry jelly on hand. In warm weather her guests are treated to the delightful custom of eating their meals out of doors on her spacious lawn with lofty spruce overhead, sparkling waters in the distance, and beyond the mighty, mysterious Olympics."

"It's not what a man possesses
That tells in the final test;
It's not what a man professes
That ranks him among the best.
Nor wealth, nor race, nor learning
Is ever the thing that amounts,
The God of us all is discerning
It's only the heart that counts."
-James G. Keenan

FORGETFUL FRIENDS

The friends who forget are the friends that we need,
For they are the friends who are friends true, indeed;
They never remember or e'er call to mind
Our shortcomings many, nor faults do they find.
They always forget every word said in haste;
Upon our misdeeds not a thought do they waste;
And, never recalling the things we'd forget,
They make us remember the good in us yet.
-Unity Daily Word

BECAUSE OF SOME GOOD ACT

Let me today do something that shall take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favored as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.
Let me tonight look back across the span
'Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say
Because of some good act to beast or man,
The world is better that I lived today.

JUST FRIENDS

'Twould never do for God to live across the street,
Or in the house next door, where we should daily meet;
So in His wisdom and His love He sometimes sends
His angels kind to walk with us - we call them "friends."

Just friends - one word! But letters can express
A wealth of sympathy and pure unselfishness.
One syllable - a single breath can form it - friends,
Yet O how much our happiness on them depends!

When trouble comes, or loss, when grief is ours to bear,
They come, our friends, with words of cheer, our load to share.
How could we face defeat without a friend's caress?
Had we no friends to praise, how bare would be success!

'Tis not God's plan that we should see Him face to face,
Yet He would hedge us in with His abounding grace;
And so His messengers of love to earth He sends.
They're angels, but we know it not, and call them "friends."
